Osborne Bros. Of Opry Fame Come To Appomattox Tonight

Southside Football Officials Association is sponsoring the Osborne Brothers in a live show at 8 p.m. tonight (Thursday) in the Appomattox High School auditorium.

The four Osborne Brothers of Grand Ole Opry fame have recorded many popular compositions, among them are: "She's No Angel," "Fair and Tender Ladies," and many Blue Grass records.

Their stage show features the five string banjo, mandolin, and a smooth vocal blend for the best in Blue Grass and Folk Music. The group is recognized as one of the top groups in these two fields of entertainment.

They began their career as a team in 1953 and are noted for their distinctive and original "Sound."

Mites Win 2nd Championship

The Mites of Appomattox (9-10 year old football players) are Campbell County League Champions for 1969, their second championship in the Campbell County league in two years.

There's a big trophy for the boys and well-deserved congratulations. They scored two touchdowns Saturday night topping the season with 12-0 score to make a season total of 226 points against opponents compared to only 26 points made by other teams.

Despite rain throughout the day the Brookville field was in "very good shape", and there was no rain during the game commented Murrell Ferguson, one of the coaches, and the boys played their usual good ball. Over the past two years the Mites of Appomattox have won 15 games and lost none. Twenty-three boys made up this year's team. Other coaches beside Ferguson include Robert Carter, Reid Shields, Ronnie Lewis and Ralph Harris.

There will be a registration fee of $1.50 per class member. The instructors for this class will be W. T. Johnson, D. W. Torrence, and H. A. Paulette.

'Community That's Ready' Gets Industry Says Speaker

"It's the community that's ready" that gets first nod from industry, said G. A. Gearhart, industrial agent for Norfolk and Western Railway Company, speaking Thursday evening at the third annual meeting of the Appomattox Chamber of Commerce.

Gearhart spoke of the mushrooming population between Miami and New York and said "by 1980 you'll find it difficult to separate towns and cities all the way from Miami and New York."

Water Supply Crucial

Land holdings were at one time the first consideration by industry to seek out a new site, said the speaker. Now, it's water. He suggested that Appomattox investigate possibility of a citizen owned water line stretching throughoughout the county and utilizing deep underground water supplies, connecting one with another by means of pipes and pumps to provide water for householders and potential industry. David son County, N. C. developed 900 miles of water lines, he said with Farm-Home Administration funds and thereby attracted new industry.

Some industries require as much as 200,000 gallons of water per day, he explained, with many others with lower demands which could find acceptable locations in Appomattox.

Bedroom County?

Gearhart said that Virginia Beach, having become a "bedroom city" for Norfolk, has found itself in the uncomfortable position of tax increases as much as 100% in two years. Landowners, even those with undeveloped property, and home owners are finding themselves saddled with tremendous tax increases in order to supply schools and teachers for a burgeoning population, he said.

He suggests that in Appomattox "your homework must be done" before industry stops by for a look. He finds it "reassuring" that Appomattox has a planning commission formed and operating. He said, too, that N & W stands ready to assist any locality in attracting industry. The water supplies necessary for an industry include enough for fire protection and sprinkler systems, even if the particular industry does not require large amounts of water for its activities.

Dip Into History

N & W has complete guides to the communities which it serves, said the speaker. He took a dip into history, reading from the 1916 N & W Guide about Pamplin City's population (500) with two tobacco warehouses and the world's largest pipe factory, Evergreen (population 150) had five general stores. Appomattox had a population of 800.

School Will Appeal VHSL Probation

Appomattox County School superintendent Earl J. Smith stated Tuesday that a letter has been sent to the Virginia High School League noting an appeal to their decision to place Appomattox High on full probation.

The action by the VHSL took place Thursday, Oct. 30. Appomattox High was placed on full probation and Jefferson Senior High of Roanoke on milder probation as a result of incidents at football games.

The VHSL's executive committee took the action against Appomattox in connection with a game the night of October 3 — Appomattox at Nelson County.

Besides full probation, which makes Appomattox ineligible for district, sectional or state athletic honors for a calendar year and places the school on conditional league membership, the league assessed the Group II District 4 member a $100 fine.

The action followed a milder form of probation given Appomattox in 1962 and a warning in 1968.

Transco Files Rate Increase

Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corporation, serving the metropolitan New York - New Jersey - Philadelphia and other eastern seaboard areas, announced today that it isp reparing to file increased sales and transportation rates with the Federal Power Commission. James B. Henderson, president said that higher rates are necessary to offset increased costs and to maintain an earnings level adequate to support financing of the company's continued growth.

He pointed out that in spite of the inflationary economy of the past ten years, Transco had not filed for increased sales rates since 1960. He added, "As a matter of fact, we have reduced sales rates a total of 17 times since 1962 mainly because of certain reduced costs to us in the past which we passed on to our customers."

The Company reported that its 1969 mainline expansion program is nearing completion. Expenditures for construction are expected to total $160 million for the year. The additional facilities will raise the system's total peak day allocated capacity including storage to more than 4 billion cubic feet of gas.

Appomattox needed 149 pints of blood donated to keep up with the quota set, Thus, the county well be placed on probation beginning in January, according to the chairmen. A good turnout of donors in January could put the county off the probation list.
